PROSPECTUS
OF THE
GLASGOW FREE PRESS.
GLASGOW, KY., December 23, 1857.

Dear Sir—Having disposed of our Printing Office in Elizabethville, Ky., and removed to Glasgow with the view of permanently locating we propose commencing the publication of a newspaper sometime during the month of February, to be entitled "THE GLASGOW FREE PRESS." It will be devoted to General Literature, Politics, Agriculture, the Arts and Sciences, News, and especially to the promotion and advancement of local and general interests of the town and county, and those adjacent. No pains or exertion on our part will be interdicted to secure due consideration for all local enterprises, that may be calculated to advance the general welfare of the community.

An earnest effort will be made to render it a valuable family newspaper, embracing, in a variety of interesting and instructive subjects in its columns. Having had considerable experience in the business, and being practically familiar with the management of a newspaper, we shall be enabled to subserve to some extent, the interests to which the "Free Press" will be dedicated.
American Politics at the present time, may be said very justly, to be in a chaotic state. We do not design, in this Prospectus, to enter the domain of speculation, but we do propose to present, in a plain, concise, and unbiassed manner, the facts of the case, and to define our political position. This may be defined very briefly. We are conscientiously opposed to the practices and the policy of the present administration, and regard the Democratic party, as now constituted, essentially an alien party; and consider its aims and purposes, as being in direct opposition to the interests of the country. We are, therefore, in favor of a new party, developed in the present administration, pregnant with evil to the Union, in violation of the plain injunctions of the Constitution, and the sacred rights of Nationality. We recognize in the "Address of the American People" promulgated at the Louisville Convention, a political creed, which we regard as the basis of a new party, and which we believe to be the only conservative, and peculiarly adapted to present exigencies. We believe that in the fundamental principles of that organization may be found the remedy for the many of the political evils, which have disordered the country and fomented sectional strife, and which it is now in evident contemplation to aggravate by unwise and imprudent legislation.

What we shall aim to be perfectly independent and honest in the expression of our views of public men and measures, we shall sincerely observe, and we shall proper respect for the opinions of others, whose convictions may lead them to differ with us. It is the peculiarity of the present time, that the opinions of the majority are so much in vogue, that the opinions of the minority are almost entirely ignored. We shall aim to be independent and honest in the expression of our views, and we shall aim to be independent and honest in the expression of our views.

We invite, in aid our enterprise, the support and patronage of the citizens of Barren and surrounding counties, and especially those who are in sympathy with the general views herein expressed.
We send you this circular, hoping that you may feel inclined to support it, and we shall be glad to receive a single copy, one year, (invariably in advance.) To clubs of 10, and upwards, $2 00
To clubs of 20, and upwards, $3 50
If any one procuring a club of Ten subscribers, will receive an extra copy.

PROSPECTUS
OF THE
"CENTRAL KENTUCKIAN."
PUBLISHED IN LEBANON, KY.

Lebanon, since the completion of the Railroad, connecting it with Louisville, is a point of interest to a large section of our country. There are hundreds of persons abroad who are in want of information upon various topics connected with it, such as the prices current, the facilities for doing and having business done here, &c., and the citizens of Lebanon themselves, wish to inform the public at large, that it is one of the most enterprising and flourishing towns in the interior of the State, and that it offers great inducements as a place of residence to men of almost every honorable trade and profession.
To supply these wants, of people abroad and citizens at home, we have determined to publish "The Central Kentuckian"—a paper devoted to the Commercial, Agricultural, Literary, and Moral welfare of the community in which it is circulated.

It is hoped that it will be able, by attention to the interest of all concerned, to supply a desideratum long felt.
Citizens of Lebanon, and of Marion and surrounding counties, to you, of whatever political party or religious sect, we look for support. That the "Central Kentuckian" be a paper of general interest, and that it be a paper in a manner which shall be at once courteous and in-offensive, we ought not to come before you as Editors. To the public at large, we are successful advocates of Truth, is the right of our obligation.

TERMS—$1 50 in advance; $2 00 in six months.
No deduction made on clubs. Return the list of names as soon as possible, as we shall issue the first number on Wednesday, the 27th.

From the New Orleans Crescent.

Later from Mexico.

The revolution initiated by Comonfort's coup d'etat is in full progress, and the whole country is in a state of confusion and anarchy.

The Governor of Vera Cruz, by authority of the State Legislature, has issued a decree declaring that the State of Vera Cruz resumes her sovereignty, without prejudice, however, to her relations with her sister States.

The decree declares that the people of Vera Cruz, by a foreign invasion, it is the duty of every citizen to take up arms in defense of the national independence and honor, and requires every Mexican male citizen of the State between the ages of 17 and 40 years to enroll himself for the public service.

Another decree of the Governor declares formally that the State of Vera Cruz leagues herself with those of Oaxaca and Puebla for the re-establishment of the legal authority.

The Governor of Tamaulipas publishes two decrees of the Legislature of that State. It is declared in the first that Tamaulipas does not acknowledge the authority of the President of the United States.

The second decree of the Governor declares that the Government is disavowed and the State of Tamaulipas resumes her sovereignty. By the second the Governor is authorized to organize, arm, and have at his disposal for the service of the State the National Guard.

The third article requires the Governor to render an account to the Legislature of the use he makes of the new powers, and the fourth provides that the decree shall remain in force until the restoration of the proper federal authority.

El Progreso doubts a rumor that Comonfort had on the 11th inst. resigned the Presidency into the hands of Juarez, on the ground that an order from Comonfort dated the 12th inst. had been published, declaring the capital in a state of siege.

El Progreso makes up from the papers of the capital a sort of journal of recent occurrences in that city, from which we translate a few of the most interesting items:

At dawn on the 10th inst., the brigade Zuloaga (the body of troops that initiated the revolutionary movement of the 17th ult.) by marching into the city and proclaiming the plan of Tacubaya "pronounced," disavowing Comonfort because he had not carried into effect the plan of Tacubaya according to their ideas. It was said that part of them wished to proclaim Zuloaga President, and others were in favor of Santa Anna.

They were fortified in the citadel, in the convents of San Augustin, Santo Domingo and at other points in the city. On the 11th, President Comonfort attempted to enter Santo Domingo and San Augustin, but was not permitted to do so. He caused Gen. Zuloaga to be arrested in the palace, on suspicion of being connected with the revolt of his brigade, but the General protested that he was innocent and was released on parole.

The Egyptian and Mexican symbols, by Comonfort had gathered at the palace about 2,000 men and a large quantity of artillery and munitions of war.

On the 15th, a column of the forces at the palace was sent against the convent of San Augustin, and was fired upon and repulsed with a loss of eight men killed and wounded.

The most vindictive part characterizes this partisan warfare. A number of the Comonfort faction got possession of a man whose warehouse they had just sacked, and hung him because he had been a captain in the National Guards and distinguished for his liberal ideas. In retaliation the Liberals seized and hung a captain of the Government troops named Martinez.

At last comes the proclamation in San Augustin were completely beleaguered by Comonfort's troops. Four pieces of artillery had been brought to bear upon them, and after firing all night had done some injury to the convent.

All foreigners had hoisted upon their houses the flags of their respective countries.

We find nothing from other parts of the Republic in the few papers we received last night, but shall probably be able to give a better idea of the condition of the country when we get our files.

WINFIELD SCOTT IN THE GALLERY.—The House has lately adopted a resolution cutting off from the privilege of the floor all persons except Justices of the Supreme Court, and members of the States, officers of the House, &c. Yesterday while the House was in session, a tall, stout, gray haired old man, dressed in very plain clothes, approached the principal entrance of the hall, and, evidently not aware of the new arrangement, attempted to enter. He was stopped by the door-keeper, who inquired if he was a Chief Justice or a Governor. "No, sir," was the answer, "but, by resolution of Congress, all officers of the Army, who have received the thanks of Congress, are entitled to the privilege of the floor."

"Are you an officer of the Army?" asked the door-keeper, looking with some doubt at the stalwart old man. "I am, sir; my name is Scott—Winfield Scott of the United States Army."

The manner of the door-keeper went an instantaneous change, as he very politely informed the General of the repeal of the resolution which gave him a right to the floor. "But," said he, "pass in General; I will take the responsibility myself."

"No, sir," was the answer, "I do not wish to violate any rule, sir; I will go to the gallery."

Whose name is synonymous with the military glory of the United States, climbed the long range of stairs and took his seat in the crowded gallery, alone and unnoticed.—Wash. Cor. of Cin. Enquirer.

DREADFUL MURDER IN MARIES COUNTY.—We learn by a private letter from the spot, that a most cruel murder was committed near Pay Down, Maries county, in this State. The victim was Mrs. Johnson, wife of W. M. Johnson, Representative in the State Legislature, from Maries; and the murderer was her step-son, Andrew Johnson, son of W. H. Johnson by a former marriage. The murderer shot his step-mother through the breast with a pistol, killing her on the spot. He was arrested and has made a confession.

Mrs. Johnson was a native of Kentucky, and was of estimable parentage. Kentucky papers are requested to copy.—St. Louis Evening News.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—Yesterday the Judge of the United States Circuit Court, after hearing the motion of the counsel of General Walker's secretary, for an extension of the time of signing the judgment against him to thirty days, dismissed the motion and made the judgment final.—N. O. Picayune, Jan. 23d.

GEORGE R. MCKEE,

OF PULASKI COUNTY.

We can supply extra copies of the Daily Commonwealth put up in wrappers ready for mailing, at two cents a piece. Orders left at the office or with our Reporters, in the Senate and House of Representatives, will be promptly attended to.

The price of the DAILY COMMONWEALTH for the session will be $1 50—and for the Weekly, 75 cents—invariably in advance.

We have before us a speech delivered by Mr. Read, through a dispensation of Providence, the Senator from Larue. We do not propose criticizing the speech in order to make either a great politician or a great hero out of the gentleman, but merely to point out to the people of Kentucky the vain and frivolous manner in which their time has been wasted by certain Democratic Legislators. Mr. Read took the floor for the purpose of addressing the Senate upon the resolutions of Mr. Ripley, condemning that portion of the President's message which recommends the passage of a bankrupt law applicable to banks and railroads, and declaring the passage of such a law to be not only a dangerous assumption of authority, but also highly inexpedient and unjust, but Mr. Read passed the subject by with seeming scorn and barely touched it with the tip of his wing. After taking a general view of the intellectual and physical advancement of this glorious country of ours, Mr. Read, at the close of his lengthy and prosy harangue, says:

Mr. Speaker, one word in reference to the resolutions offered by the Senator from Louisville, and I am done. I am inclined to vote against them, and shall vote for those offered as a substitute by the gentleman from Greenup, (Mr. Rust.)

Mr. Andrews: I desire to know if the Senator would vote for it as applicable to railroads, banks, turnpikes, and all State corporations.

Mr. Read: I will answer the Senator with pleasure. I do not recollect the language of the President's message, altogether, but a bankrupt law is recommended by him, and this is the sin for which the Democratic party is to be arraigned before the country. I understand that the constitution gives to Congress clearly the right to pass a uniform system of bankrupt laws, and if one can be passed and made applicable to individuals, it certainly, with the same propriety, will apply to corporations, from the fact that corporations are nothing more nor less than ideal individuals, and it is one of the great rights conferred upon the general government in order that she may hold in check and correct the many evils that may grow out of corporations and monopolies. I do not know that it would be politic or proper to pass a law of that kind at this time, but so far as the right or power in Congress to pass such a law is concerned, it is clear to my mind and indisputable.

Mr. Andrews: My question was not in regard to governmental powers.

Mr. Read: I think I answered the honorable Senator when I said I did not know whether it would be politic or proper to pass such a law at this time. The right in Congress to pass such a law I do not question. That right is a question of policy alone; and should a law be passed to have a prospective bearing I would not object to it, but I certainly should object to one being passed that would have a retrospective bearing. I am now in hopes the honorable Senator is satisfied. Mr. Speaker: I had no intention of making a speech of this length, and would not have done so, had I not been interrupted. I hope the Senate will pardon me for the intrusion.

And this was all that Mr. Read, in a speech of nearly two columns in length, had to say concerning the question before the Senate. If he had contented himself with this, inasmuch as in his speech he admitted the correctness of Mr. Ripley's resolution and took decided ground against the President's message, there would have been no occasion for us to notice him in any way. But as he stepped aside from the course of legitimate debate to assail the American party upon other topics, we cannot resist the temptation to introduce him to our readers, even at the risk of giving him a little temporary notoriety.

Mr. Read believes that Congress has the abstract constitutional power to pass a bankrupt law applicable to banks and railroads, but he fails to say whether he does not deem it a dangerous assumption of power for Congress at this late day to undertake to control institutions which have been managed by the States for nearly three quarters of a century. We hold that since Congress has so long delegated the power, which she may or may not possess, to the States, or, at least, has so long acquiesced in its exercise by the States in their sovereign capacity, that it is by custom and precedent and virtual agreement of the Federal Government, become a part of State sovereignty. If the States have the power to grant charters to banks and railway companies, they certainly have the power to control and regulate those companies. If the States have the power to give existence, and life, and motion, to any institution, that institution remains within the sovereignty and jurisdiction of the States under whose laws it holds its charter, and the Federal Government has nothing whatever to do with it. The powers to grant a charter to any institution, and afterwards to control it, are correlative, and cannot reside in two separate and distinct sovereignties. These propositions are self-evident, and require no long argument to demonstrate their force. To say, then, that the States have the power to charter banks and railway companies, and that the Federal Government has the power to control and regulate, or to pass a bankrupt law applicable to them, as an absurdity. Nor is it necessary for us to inveigh against the manifest injustice of Congress so long refusing to furnish the country with a medium of exchange sufficient to carry on its commerce and trade, as it has done under Democratic misrule—and thus throwing the necessity and responsibility of providing for the exigencies of our merchants upon the States—and then, after the wealth and prosperity of many of our citizens are wrapt up in these institutions, taking them from under the control of the States, to be managed by Federal commissioners and agents. There is no necessity of enlarging upon this branch of the subject, as the bogus defenders of State-rights had not courage to defend the policy and propriety of the President's recommendation—and this, too, in spite of their boasted manliness and valor. But there is no escaping this issue, that if Congress has power to control or regulate the affairs of State banks or other corporations, the charters granted by the States giving such institutions existence, are null and void. And inasmuch as the Democrats of the Senate have placed themselves on record as being in favor of the exercise of such power by Congress, the American party will hold them strictly to the issue in the coming canvass.

But perhaps we should not occupy so much space upon so small a portion of Mr. Read's speech; the larger portion of it was devoted to all the clap-trap insinuations which characterized the speeches of politicians of his stamp in the canvass of 1856, and with which he is evidently far more familiar than he is with any question of statesmanlike policy, requiring high, manly, and dignified argument. Mr. Read could not resist the temptation of indulging in those insinuations which are so habitual with men of his order, but felt called upon to introduce into the Senate chamber the meanest of all the devices ever used by an unscrupulous demagogue upon the stump. In order to traduce that great and good man, Millard Fillmore, around whose brow there are wreathed laurels whose brightness can never be obscured by all the defamation of all the political scavengers in the country—that man to whom a nation, and especially the South, delighted to homage—whom the Southern Democratic press welcomed with adulation, and whose wise and patriotic administration they endorsed—such a man it is whom Mr. Read insinuates is an Abolitionist, and, in order to support his insinuation, needs dig up a garbled extract from that Erie letter. Mr. Read so garbled the letter as to totally pervert its meaning. Mr. Fillmore's record had nothing to do with Mr. Ripley's resolutions, and if it had had, it would better become a fair politician and a Kentuckian to have spoken the truth concerning that record, than to have resorted to the despicable subterfuge of garbling and distorting in order to blacken the reputation of one of the purest of patriots. We are unwilling to believe that the people of Larue could send a man to the Senate of Kentucky who is so ignorant as not to know that Mr. Fillmore never wrote the letter which Mr. Read attributes to him. If Mr. Read had been guilty of doing the same thing in a commercial transaction that he has with Mr. Fillmore's letter, he could easily be convicted of forgery before any intelligent jury. Is it possible that he has so low an opinion of the intelligence of the people of Kentucky as to expect to impose upon them by any such garbled extracts? Why did he print such an irrelevant and pointless speech, without it was that he despised or bringing himself into public notice in any other way?

But the speaker proceeded to descend upon the Dred Scott case. We knew that Taney's opinions had decided in favor of nearly every plank in the Democratic platform, but really had not thought that he was sufficiently gifted with the spirit of prophecy to foresee the present crisis, and embrace Buchanan's mischievous recommendation at that farce. Mr. Read gave a history of all the annexations to our country, and gave all the credit to that great party of which he is a member, but he entirely forgot to state that much of the Western Territory, including Texas, which we spent so much blood and treasure in regaining, once belonged to us and was ceded to Spain by that same Democratic party. No doubt he is ignorant of that important fact. Mr. Read goes on to eulogize colleges and churches, quite forgetting that he had assisted in demolishing one of the fairest of our temples of learning, and that, not many weeks ago, he denounced ministers of the gospel as the most ignorant class of men in the State. And with much more of such incoherent stuff and fustian, closed the most rambling and ridiculous speech we ever listened to or read.

Hon. THOS. F. MARSHALL.—We call particular attention to the correspondence between a number of our most prominent citizens and this highly gifted orator and finished scholar. Mr. Marshall's lectures have been listened to by large and enthusiastic audiences in Cincinnati, Oxford, Lexington, Louisville, and other cities. He cannot fail to please a Frankfort audience, with whom he is so great a favorite. But compliments to Tom. Marshall are superfluous. It will be impossible to add to his brilliant reputation by newspaper notices. Every one in town will snatch at the opportunity of once more listening to the eloquence of Kentucky's most gifted son.

We hear from Richmond, Va., that one-half the Enquirer of that city has recently been sold to O. Jennings Wise, eldest son of Gov. Wise, and Nathaniel Tyler, of Warrenton, Fauquier county, Va., formerly the editor of the Flag of Ninety-Eight, a weekly paper published in that town.

Map of the Heavens.—We see it stated that a magnificent and interesting work is now being issued at Paris—a complete map of the heavens, so far as modern astronomical knowledge extends—prepared under the auspices of the imperial observatory. It is to consist of sixty-five plates executed in the most superb artistic style, each one of the plates indicating the position of 25,625 stars of the third magnitude, or 1,659,125 in all. The eighteen plates of this magnificent series, now finished, was recently presented to the French Academy of Sciences, where it excited the greatest admiration.

SPECIE IN THE UNITED STATES.—Since the establishment of the United States mint, in 1792, according to the American Almanac, the amount of gold coin issued, to the close of 1849, was $79,923,202; from 1850 to the close of 1857, it was $425,869,738; making a total gold coinage of $505,812,940. At the commencement of 1850, the amount of specie in the United States was estimated to be $114,000,000; the amount of gold received from California, to the close of 1857, has been estimated to be $630,000,000; the amount of specie brought into the country by immigrants during the last eight years is estimated to be $100,000,000; making a total of $844,000,000. Within the last eight years, according to the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, there have been exported in specie (less imports) $209,983,860; leaving the amount existing, at the present time, in the United States, in the shape of coin, bullion, plate, jewelry, &c., &c., $634,016,140.

Gov. Wise on Emigration to Virginia.

Some of the fire eaters of Virginia have almost consumed themselves with wrath because Eli Thayer proposed to bring a few thousand industrious Yankees to the work of rejuvenating "Old Virginia." Governor Wise takes a more sensible view of the subject, as will be seen by the following extract from a late letter:

Gov. Wise on emigration to Virginia.—Governor Wise, having some time since, been written to in relation to Eli Thayer's emigration scheme, replied that he knew nothing of the object beyond what was stated in the newspapers. Although sternly opposed to all associations or combinations likely to impair the value of property in slaves, he thus sets forth his views of peaceful and lawful emigration to Virginia.

Our State needs settlers to develop her vast resources; and I would, from policy and without fear, encourage emigrants to come to our waste lands and improve them, to increase our population, our revenue, and our State and federal strength. And so conscious am I of the power of Virginia to protect and defend her institutions, and the persons and property of her citizens, in her own limits at least, that I would neither feel nor betray any fear, if felt, which would repel lawful emigration and settlement. That State must be weak, indeed, which would from mere apprehension, arrest the progress of her development lest she could not preserve her peace, protect her persons and property, and enforce her laws. I have no fear, therefore, that any emigration scheme intended to effect Virginia can endanger either her honor, her rights, her possessions, or her peace in her own limits.

No matter what may be the newspaper rumors, however calculated to alarm the timid or to excite the excitable, or to add fuel to the fires of agitation, my counsel is calmly to invite settlers to our lands, to offer them every facility and favor of good neighborhood; to give them all the protection of peace; to encourage them in increasing plenty, by multiplying the hands and vocations of labor—and to allow them to abide with us under our laws so long as they will obey those laws and respect all rights under them. Indeed, I know of no laws, State or federal, which do not require this rule to be observed towards all emigrants of good behavior. The right to remove from one State and to settle in another, complying with the laws, is a reciprocal right of the citizens of the respective States, under the constitution of the United States. Why not calmly wait, then, for the fact as it may arise? If the act and the intent of immigration shall manifest themselves to be unlawful, we have the power to enforce the law; if lawful, we ought to encourage settlement, and are bound to extend protection to innocent and lawful immigration. At all events, let us be manly in our action, and not move from the promptings of mere apprehension and fear.

FRANKFORT, Feb. 2, 1858.

Hon. THOS. F. MARSHALL:

DEAR SIR: We, the undersigned, being anxious to hear your discourses on History, respectfully request that you will deliver them before a Frankfort audience, at such time and place as may best suit your convenience.

By complying with our earnest desire you will confer a favor upon many who have never had the pleasure of hearing you upon any subject.

We are confident that the lectures will not only please and instruct, but that they will be attended by large and intelligent audiences.

We are, sir, very respectfully, your friends:

A. G. Hodges, Thos. J. Helm, Geo. W. Lewis, W. J. N. Welburn, T. P. Atticus Bibb, B. W. Chamblin, Mason Brown, Sam'l E. DeHaven, J. H. Garrard, E. O. Brown, Thos. S. Page, J. K. Wilson, J. R. Watson, J. M. Boardman, Louis D. Craig, Wm. P. Brannan, S. A. Foss, M. C. Johnson, John Ellis, M. J. Mitchell, Blanton H. Duncan, B. M. Winston, J. K. Goodloe, A. H. Talbot, John G. Lyon, W. T. Anthony, Daniel P. White, J. K. Huey, Sam. C. Sayers, R. P. Switzer, H. B. Grant, Thos. M. Green, Ben. C. Trapnall.

FRANKFORT, Feb. 2, 1858.

GENTLEMEN: I have received, with appropriate sensibility, I hope, your invitation. I will deliver three discourses on the history of Modern Europe, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, at the Ball Room, Capital Hotel, Frankfort.

With high respect,

THOS. F. MARSHALL.

Mrs. A. DRAKE.—This accomplished lady is now playing at the Frankfort Theater. We have only the time and space to say that she fully sustains the justly high reputation she earned in her earlier days, and that age has in no way impaired her matchless elocution.

DEATH OF JOHN RAINE.—Our columns have seldom, if ever, announced a death that will sadden so many hearts as that of our friend, and the friend of every good man, woman, and child in all this world, John Raine. He died at the Galt House yesterday morning at 8 1/2 o'clock. In feeble health for many years, his indomitable resolution and fortitude seemed almost able to overcome an incurable malady. But nature could resist no longer; and, yesterday, with his nearest relatives and dearest friends around him, with mind unclouded and faith secure, calmly, peacefully, willingly, lovingly, his soul returned to him that gave it. Of John Raine, as truthfully and appropriately as it was ever said of any man, we may utter what we feel, that—

"None knew him but to love him, None named him but to praise."

We understand that his remains will be taken to Paris, Ky., where he was born, for interment.

[Lau. Journal.]

THE Lecompton Constitution.—We have every reason to believe that an effort is to be made to compel the people of Kansas to accept this fraudulent contrivance. We consider it more disagreeable intelligence to our political friends, who had hoped that the magnitude of the manifold frauds which have thus far sustained that instrument would be enough to consign it to universal ignominy. That it will be resisted in Congress, we hope and believe; that it will be resisted by the people, we know. There never was a question upon which the Democracy of Pennsylvania were so fully united as in fearless hostility to the rule of the minority in Kansas; and hence, to the Lecompton Constitution.—Philadelphia Press, 29th.
